Granite City CEO Class of 2017

Every day and every year is different in CEO and this third year of our Granite City CEO program is no exception. Students are different, class speakers are different and business visits are different. Students are different at the end of the year than on the first day of CEO class in August. Students are transformed from being a typical high school student sitting in classrooms with a textbook and being graded on tests to young professionals acting and thinking differently, thinking like an entrepreneur and looking at the world in a different way.

This transformation occurs because of the level of support and commitment from our business community, our leaders, investors, CEO board members, mentors, visitors, and hosts. Every day students are inspired by different leaders and are given the opportunity to experience different examples of inspiration. We had the honor and privilege of 50 business visits in Granite City and the St. Louis region and listening and learning from 49 speakers in our CEO classroom.

One of our August speakers was Mrs. Ashley Swip, a Granite City High School physical education teacher. Students were inspired and moved by her story of her brother's battle with melanoma cancer at age 28. She formed a 501c3 nonprofit organization, 3 Little Birds 4 Life, to grant wishes to adult cancer patients. She learned through this experience there were no available resources to help adult cancer patients. The students were so impressed and had a true determination to make a difference and help the cause. They went through the proper channels and obtained District #9 School Board approval in October to start a chapter of 3 Little Birds 4 Life by creating the Warrior Flock. The Warrior Flock encourages healthy habits with an increased awareness in living healthier into adulthood and practicing an active lifestyle. Students contributed to the cause by collecting items and delivered gift bags to adult cancer patients at the Siteman Cancer Center in St. Louis. They also became part of the wish team and helped with granting wishes.

My wish is for our young adults to keep being inspired, solving problems and to continue looking at our community and the world in a different way. Developing our own young entrepreneurs is a vital investment in the growth and future of Granite City.

On behalf of my thirteen Granite City CEO board members, I sincerely appreciate and thank our business community, students and their parents, for making a difference in our community's future.

This program allows students to participate in all school activities. Students complete an application for the CEO program at the beginning of the second semester of their junior year. The class is hosted by a different business every nine weeks and the students meet at the host business when the class is not on a business visit. Riley Brown, a senior at Granite City High School, is a multi-sport athlete. A four-year letterman for the Warrior Golf Team, he also plays club and high school hockey; being selected to an all-star team two successive years. In his spare time, he likes to travel, camp, and spend time with his friends and family. He works part time at Legacy Golf Course. After high school, he plans to attend college to major in business and play golf and hockey. His start up business, Riley's Power Washing: for all your outdoor cleaning needs, came from observations and prior work experience. "I am really happy what I have learned in this class; it has really opened my eyes to what I can do in the business world. I am excited to start my own business and begin making money. I am also excited to see what else I can learn the rest of the school year in CEO."

Fatima Bucio proudly balances a very busy calendar with extensive volunteerism and academics. These include membership on GCHS Student Council for three years, Foreign Language Club, and as a charter member of Warrior Flock. Fatima was selected to serve as a member of the Mannie Jackson Center for the Humanities Foundation. During the summer, she volunteers for the Twigs Organization, which provides free lunches for children. She enjoys her community service, which includes community clean-up projects and volunteering her time at Happy Trails Farm. Fatima's hobbies include experimenting with new vegetarian recipes, painting, yoga, dancing, and playing the drums. Following her high school career, she plans to attend Southwestern Illinois College to pursue her dream of becoming a nurse practitioner. In the meantime, Fatima is actively taking the first step to achieving her dreams by job shadowing a nurse practitioner at a local hospital. Fatima is the owner of Grounded, an all natural, handmade lotion bar line. After realizing the dangers of putting harsh chemicals on her skin, she decided to make her own with all natural ingredients. "The greatest thing about CEO, to me, has been the connections that I have made. I have met so many amazing individuals and built many great relationships in the class. Everyday brings a new experience, a new story, and a new relationship and I'm incredibly grateful for that and for this whole CEO experience".

Torrey Deal's high school accomplishments boasts four years as a multi-sport athlete. He plays three varsity sports, which include basketball, football, and track. Athletic honors include super sophomore and honorable mention all-conference in track. Torrey is ranked fifth in the high jump and tenth in the triple jump statewide. He participates in Varsity Club and is a co-founder and Vice President of Warrior Flock, a charter high school chapter of 3 Little Birds 4 Life (a not for profit started by a local teacher to provide wishes for adults with cancer). He has volunteered as a high school office worker for two years. In his downtime, he helps children with sports and teaches them teamwork. He plans to attend a four-year university after high school and hopes he gets the opportunity to continue sports in college. Teedoo's T-Shirts, Torrey's business, is to allow people to create a personal connection with their apparel. "I am thankful for the opportunity to participate in a class such as CEO. I am getting a head start on the business side of life. I am learning skills such as communication, networking, and how to properly act in certain surroundings. I would personally like to thank Mrs. Greenwald, the GC facilitator, for all her help she has given me in the last eight months; she stayed late hours at the high school to help me formulate my business plan. All the things I am learning are going to help me in the real world."

Kaitlyn Foltz is a co-founder and Treasurer of Warrior Flock, a charter high school chapter of 3 Little Birds 4 Life (a not for profit started by a local teacher to provide wishes for adults with cancer). Kaitlyn's many volunteer activities include Happy Trails Farm, National Honor Society, and her church nursery. Her hobbies are reading, drawing, and baking. She was selected to participate in the high school Job Shadow Program for two years. Kaitlyn is now the proud owner of Katie's Kupcakes and More: sweet treats for all occasions, a bakery she has longed to create for many years. "The CEO class has taught me so much on what I want to do and how this experience will help me with my own business. I am very thankful for the speakers, business owners and to the CEO Board members that have helped make this happen. I am really excited to see what the Warrior Flock can do to help our high school and our community. I'm also excited for Katie's Kupcakes to launch and become successful."

Desteny James' business is Key Inspiration, an art center for young children and teenagers to freely express themselves artistically. Desteny's passion for art has been longstanding, occurring to her in seventh grade to develop a business. She's longed to be an artist since grade school, but never wanted to be a starving artist so she created a remedy to that problem. Her hobbies include art, writing, reading, camping, and watching movies. She is a co-founder and Secretary of Warrior Flock, a charter high school chapter of 3 Little Birds 4 Life (a not for profit started by a local teacher to provide wishes for adults with cancer). She is a Christian and faithfully attends and participates in church activities. She plans to major in art and business in college. She has been involved with Job Shadow and was very excited about it. She won 1st place at her first hackathon event, a team experience to develop a technological solution for a problem. Desteny has completed numerous high school art classes to improve her art talent and prepare for the future. "I am very excited to be a part of this class and learn real world skills to help me in the future. This class has been a very big opportunity for me and I'm glad I took advantage of this opportunity."

Austin Padgett is a member of the National Honor Society and served as the Chief Financial Officer for the CEO class business. Austin was a three-year varsity wrestler for Granite City High School. Austin ranks number ten in his senior class and spends most of his free time helping others. His extra-curricula activities include Peer Tutoring, Science Club, Foreign Language Club, and journalism. His honors include recognition as an Elks Student of the Month and Belleville News-Democrat Student of the Week. He plans to attend Missouri School of Science and Technology to major in physics. Austin is running his business Austin's Oreo Balls, selling Oreo cookie pops. His future expansion plans include selling additional desserts. "I have learned so much more in CEO than I ever have, and ever will learn, in another class. I wish it didn't have to end, and that we could continue to visit businesses and learn from people who are successful, learning their secrets to success. I want to thank everyone who has made it possible for me to be in this class: the CEO board members, business owners and speakers, and facilitator, Mrs. Greenwald."

Christopher Reeves balances a multitude of school, work, and extra-curricular activities. He is currently involved in the Job Shadow Program at GCHS and employed at Ravanelli's Restaurant in Granite City. Chris spends his summers working for the Granite City Park District as a youth baseball league umpire. After school, or on the weekends when he is not working, he likes to spend his time at the local skatepark on his BMX bike. His business is Radical Bike Repairs, which is a pickup and delivery bike repair service providing an alternative to customers in transporting a bike for service. He is currently finalizing his plans for college. "I have already made multiple connections with people throughout the community because of this CEO Program and I cannot wait to see what the rest of this year has in store!"

Dominique Rose exemplifies adaptability and determination transitioning her senior year as a new student to Granite City High School. Transferring in from DuQuoin, Illinois, she previously played volleyball, and ran on the track team. With her free time, she enjoys reading and experimenting as a makeup artist. She plans to further her education in cosmetology and business. Dominique's business name is LittleDust, inspired by fairy dust. Her business is applying other people's makeup for a variety of special events. She wants everyone to feel beautiful when they go somewhere! Dominique is pursuing her longheld passion for makeup by sharing her talents with others. Eventually she wants to open her own studio. "I saw the CEO class advertised while still in DuQuoin and it really interested me. I decided to enroll in the program when I moved to Granite City and was thrilled when I was accepted. I'm happy that I am in the CEO Program because this class is definitely one of a kind."

Joshua Royce is an accomplished leader and innovative thinker. He is a three-year letterman of the Varsity Cross Country team at Granite City High School. He is currently employed as an operator at the AutoSpa Carwash. The Boy Scouts of America have been a major influence in Josh's life since the first grade. He recently completed his Eagle Scout project at the Chouteau Island Nature Trails and will be obtaining his Eagle Scout rank soon. Joshua enjoys listening to vinyl records, playing the keyboard and has a burning desire to become a musician. He was recently accepted to Southern Illinois University Edwardsville and plans to pursue a degree in entrepreneurship. Josh's current startup, Rock'N Records, is a business focusing on: Vintage Vinyl Records, Restorations, and Repairs. Josh said he likes to work with his hands and is "into anything rusty and dusty" ...or in other words, he is into antiques and things that are old and have a vintage look. Josh served as the Chief Executive Officer for the CEO class's business this year and plans to use this experience in his personal entrepreneurial career pursuits. "I feel like this program is shaping who I am as a person. The soft skills that I am learning through the CEO class are extremely valuable and I plan on using them for the rest of my life. I have been looking forward to this class since my freshman year in high school, and I am excited that it is finally here. Everything I have learned and will learn in this class is setting the stage for who I will become as a person."

Latrell Smith has lettered in two varsity sports: soccer and baseball. His prestigious honors include soccer all-conference, being selected to participate in the Student Leadership Council, Job Shadow, and the Mannie Jackson Center for Humanities Foundation. He also is a co-founder of Warrior Flock, a charter high school chapter of 3 Little Birds 4 Life (a not for profit started by a local teacher to provide wishes for adults with cancer). When Latrell has free time, he enjoys hanging out with friends, family, and attending church services and volunteering for activities at his church. As of now, he plans to study psychology or business at East Central College in Missouri, while also continuing his soccer career. He is the proud owner of Buddy's Desserts, specializing in baking pound cakes from recipes that have been in his family for generations. "Starting CEO, I knew it was going to impact my social ability to communicate and connect with people in my everyday life. I can honestly say it very much did that, but also has allowed me to choose a career path for my studies at East Central College. I would like to say thank you to the guest speakers and the businesses we have visited, and the CEO board members for allowing us to participate in the program."

Jordan Stermer participates in National Honor Society, Varsity Club, and was a two year varsity wrestler at Granite City High School. He is the inaugural Mr. CEO as a contestant in the high school Mr. Warrior pageant. On the weekends Jordan likes flying RC planes, playing video games, hanging out with friends, and helping people. After high school, he is attending Maryville University to major in Cybersecurity where he is receiving a scholarship to compete on the Counter Strike (a video game) team. Jordan is starting an innovative begleri business called 1 String. Begleri, from ancient Greece, are small skilled toys used to perform tricks and to focus fidgeting. He has decided to start this because he likes learning new things and has trouble sitting still. "I cannot believe CEO is almost over for the 2017 school year; I am so happy I took this amazing opportunity of a class. I learned more in this one class then I have from any other class I have taken. Without CEO, I have no idea what track my life would be on. I found what I want to go to college for and where I wanted to go because of this class. I want to thank everybody who has helped me throughout the year including the people who came into talk to us, the people who let us come on awesome business visits, and the CEO board. But I especially, want to thank my mentor Adam Saltsgaver for helping me so much on 1 String. Lastly, I want to thank the most important person, Mrs. Greenwald, for persuading me to take the class that changed my life."

Kyle Thompson is a multi-sport athlete with a focus on football and wrestling. He is a three-year varsity letterman and three time all conference award-winning linebacker and tight end in football. Kyle is a four-year varsity letterman in wrestling and four consecutive years all conference. Kyle qualified for the elite eight in IHSA state wrestling junior and senior years. He is a co-founder and President of Warrior Flock, a charter high school chapter of 3 Little Birds 4 Life (a not for profit started by a local teacher to provide wishes for adults with cancer). Kyle will attend Quincy University to play football in the fall. With the CEO program, Kyle started his own business, KT'S HELMETS, which is a company that is changing the way people see the wide brand of sports memorabilia and home decor. KT'S HELMETS are a fresh and unique idea that provides full-sized caged football helmets with options for a built-in clock and/or a kitchen knife holder. "What I like about CEO, you are able to test things, experience yourself and say how you feel. CEO let's you be yourself in class and teaches you for people to be great, they have to be pushed. CEO has the business world vibe where you talk, discuss and learn to communicate the right way. Thank you to everyone who has invested in Granite City CEO. Thank you Mrs. G for getting me involved in such a class and thank the CEO board members, businesses and speakers in our community."
